Obligations for
Low-Income
Mothers, Fathers and Children

Dollars and Sense: Improving the Determination of Child Support Obligations for Low-Income Mothers, Fathers and Children was written by the National Women's Law Center and the Center on Fathers, Families, and Public Policy as the second report on the special concerns of low-income mothers and fathers — and public policy recommendations to address these concerns — in several areas of family law and policy. The report is based on the discussions of the participants in the Centers' collaborative Common Ground project.

The National Women's Law Center is a non-profit organization working to expand opportunities and eliminate barriers for women and their families, with a major emphasis on the areas of family economic security, education, employment and health.

The Center on Fathers, Families, and Public Policy is a non-profit organization working to improve outcomes for low-income families, especially by advancing policies to help parents, whether married or not, work together to support their children emotionally and financially.

Additional copies of this report are available at www.nwlc.org or www.cffpp.org, or from either Center.
